BUFFALO RIVERWORKS

RiverWorks’ creative reuse of Buffalo’s waterfront grain silos embodies the city’s broader rebirth. The old ruins have been repurposed into a brewery, a full service bar and beer garden and a zipline course sprawling overhead. An underground pipe pumps eight different beers brewed in the grain elevator into the adjacent bar and restaurant.

In the heart of Downtown Buffalo, the lower level of the Dun Building has become the city’s hippest basement. This relatively lean beer operation is also Buffalo’s only Japanese izakaya, serving up small shareable Asian fare. The beers, “Belgian-inspired but with a Japanese twist,” are some of the region’s most creative brews – made with ingredients like miso and green tea.
SOUTHERN TIER BREWING CO.

Founded in 2002, Southern Tier Brewing Company has been steadfastly committed to brewing the highest quality handcrafted beers with the best ingredients and meticulous attention to detail. This consistent focus has led Southern Tier to become the 33rd largest craft brewer in the United States.
